In today's competitive and globalised economy, sourcing high-calibre staff with the right skills can be a real challenge.

IAESTE allows employers to benefit from the world's top trainees from the science, engineering, technology and applied arts sectors for short or long term projects.

As an international student traineeship programme with more than 65 years' experience, exchanging over 4000 trainees a year, IAESTE is well poised to help your business succeed in a global market.

There's very little bureaucracy involved in providing a placement. After the initial decision to take on a trainee is made, most of the work is performed by IAESTE. It's all very easy from that point of view.

Alan Frew, Director, URS Glasgow

“

We love working with young people and graduates as it's a big part of our culture – but also, as a business, we need to think and work globally and by employing international students they give us a completely different perspective.

Diane Roberts, CEO, Xcell Partners Ltd

With IAESTE, your company can:

- access a pool of 10,000 high-calibre, skilled trainees from over 80 countries worldwide
- gain local market knowledge and develop your company's export strategies
- tap into the latest academic and technical advances in your field
- overcome communication barriers by hiring a trainee with multiple language skills.

Concerned about the paperwork?

Don't be – IAESTE's free-of-charge service takes care of all the administration employing an international worker entails, from sourcing the right candidate to supporting the UK Visa and Immigration application process.
